It is reported by the Calgary papers that Mr. Hiebert, M.P.P. for Rosebud, stated on the floor of the house in Edmonton on Tuesday that it would be unfortunate for the present government to be defeated and replaced by a Conservative administration. He thought that valuable time, which should be spent in keeping pace with the marvellous growth of the province, would be wasted in quarrelling with the government at Ottawa. He thought that opposition to the government was necessary at times but sometimes was a curse.

Granted $1000

The following paragraph was copied from the Calgary papers just as we were going to press: Edmonton, Feb. 24th. — Premier Rutherford explained that a grant of $1,000 on public libraries was to go to a library at Didsbury which had been the first town in the province to earn a grant under the Public Libraries Act.

The Premier expressed regret that more towns and cities had not availed themselves of the opportunity under the act for establishing a public library.

Had Foot Nearly Cut Off

A bad accident occurred at Ogilvie's saw mill, west of town, on Monday, when F. Hazleton, who was working at a mill, by some means had his foot nearly severed from the leg by a large circular saw. Mr. Hazleton was hastily summoned and after dressing the injured man had him brought to town and taken to Calgary on the night train. As it was thought that they could not get him to town in time to catch the train the doctor requested the station agent, Mr. Finkbe, to make arrangements to hold the train over for a few minutes.

The agent immediately took the matter in hand and received permission from Calgary to hold the train over for 15 minutes, but this was not necessary as they only had to wait five minutes. Mr. Hazleton is an Englishman who came to this country about three years ago and is about 27 years of age. He is unmarried. It is thought that he will have to have his foot amputated but all efforts are being made to save the member.

Marriage Bells

A pretty and popular wedding took place at Westcott on Wednesday evening, February 17th, when Miss Nellie Berscht, of Westcott was united in wedlock to Mr. Bert Wilson of Didsbury. The bride was given away by her father, while Miss Minerva Rhinehart played the wedding march. Rev. H. Goudie officiating. The bride was attired in a dress of white with lace trimming, and carried a beautiful bouquet of white roses. The happy couple left for a honeymoon trip to Red Deer, the brides travelling suit being brown panama with hat to match. The gifts received were both numerous and costly, as well as useful, and testified to the esteem in which they are held by their large circle of friends.

Liquor and the Law

But it was in 1908 that the Government of the Province, having dealt with the non-license with the "milded fist" turned its attention to the licensee and lopped off an hour and a half from the end of his business day. It has been well said that no substantial reform can ever be accomplished without adversely affecting interests that will fight the government introducing the reform with such bitterness and to such effect that no amount of casual support gained from the general public will compensate for the enmity of the vested interest concerned. So it comes about that oftentimes those governments that labor hard for reform, and admittedly accomplish great, necessary and beneficial changes, are the very ones that fall at the polls almost immediately afterwards. It has been so time and again in England, and were it not that it is difficult for one living in Alberta to realize the present provincial administration going down to defeat at the next battle of the ballots—a consummation for which even their opponents so far as one may judge from their expressed statements do not appear to be men to hope—it would seem from the activity that is being displayed by the liquor interest in the province at the present time and for several months past, that their hour had almost come. But whether this be so or not the Province of Alberta certainly presents a striking example of the change that without question has come over public sentiment in the matter of the liquor traffic.

ANALYTICAL CHEMIST TELLS OF PATENT MEDICINES

A graduate in organic chemistry, who has made a study of many of the best known patent medicines on the market, states that many have virtue, but as a rule people have to pay for a lot of unnecessary expense.
The following is the recipe of a well-known secret preparation, and is known by authority to be one of the best stomach and liver tonics. It is prescribed by many of the best physicians.

This mixture cures constipation and biliousness. The recipe: Fluid Extract Cascara, 1/2 oz.; Compound
Syrup Rhubarb, 1 oz.; Fluid Extract
Carraria Compound, 1 oz.; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, 5 oz. Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

An eminent authority, who has made a careful and scientific study of the relative value of drugs having a specific action on the kidneys, bladder and liver, pronounces this an excellent combination.

You can buy the ingredients separately and mix at home.

Best Ways to Make Beliefs

AUNT HETTY could make splendid games of make-believe, not only for the tiniest of tots, mind you, but for grown folks as well. So perhaps it was altogether to be expected that 10-year-old Marjory would approach her "most three weeks before Christmas with the request:

"Auntie, I want the very best make-believe game you can think of for my Christmas party. You'll have to think mighty hard if you want to beat the last party you had for me, which was just too nice for anything."

"Well, my dear," replied Aunt Hetty, "the very best form of entertainment is sometimes the most simple. I think a masquerade would be the nicest one you could have. But, remember, it must be a real masquerade. In no part of the masquerade has any difficulty in recognizing the person in costume. Why don't you say in your invitation for a masquerade party that every guest must be HEAVILY disguised? And, shortly after all the guests arrive, gather them together and have each write on a slip of paper containing a list of names of the characters represented what each believes to be the names of the masqueraders in the different costumes. Then, if all are well disguised, it will be a hard task for any one to guess all the boys and girls correctly. The one who makes the best guess should be given a prize."

"That's a splendid idea, Auntie. You'll help, won't you, to make ME so no one can possibly tell who I am?"

Aunt Hetty agreed, and then assisted Marjory in preparing the invitations for the party. On the day of the event Marjory was all excitement. Her mother knew no bounds until Aunt Hetty at last announced she was ready to "make up" the little girl. You see, Aunt Hetty had taken part in real theatricals and knew all about "making up." In response to the little girl's inquiries, she told something about this art.

THERE WERE PURITAN DAMSELS AND INDIANS AND CAVALIERS

There are, said she, two ways of making up. One is to make use of colored powders. The face is first rubbed over very carefully with vaseline. Then the powders are put on with a puff, and the colors blended with a hair's foot.

In the other method the same powders are used mixed with grease, and known as grease paint. Deeper and more shadow tints can be had through the use of grease paint than can be obtained with the colored sticks or pencils, and which, when once applied, will not come off with alcohol. In color the pencils range from the palest pink hue of a baby's face to the copper-brown of the American Indian, and every tint between may be obtained.

Before using the sticks the face should be thoroughly cleaned with cold cream. Next a stick of grease paint of the flesh color is rubbed upon the face at four or five places. This is rubbed over the face until the entire surface is evenly colored.

Then red paint is applied. If the flesh tint to be obtained is brunette, the stick should be carmine. If blonde, a brick-dust hue. In applying this stick to the face, the deepest color should be laid about the top of the cheekbone, and lighter and lighter down to the jaws.

Under each eye a blue line an eighth of an inch wide is drawn with a dark stick of grease paint. The eyelashes and eyebrows should be blackened and then given the desired shape. Close to the corners of the eyes small spots of red should be added.

Only with red, blue and black pencils features. To disguise the face, if a nose peg or a tip-tail, a white line is drawn down the center to the very tip. If the cheeks are too plump, the lower half of them should be darkened. If cheekbones are high and the cheeks hollow beneath them, the former are whitened and the latter reddened. Wrinkles are made with a grease paint or the color known as ex-hibed, although a blue or black pencil may be employed.

The ears should be brushed with a hair's foot filled with dark, flesh-colored, or perhaps darker, red, powder. Carmine pigment is used to reddened the lips.

Aunt Hetty explained that there are also face washes, made in many tints of flesh color, which may be used instead of grease paints or powder.

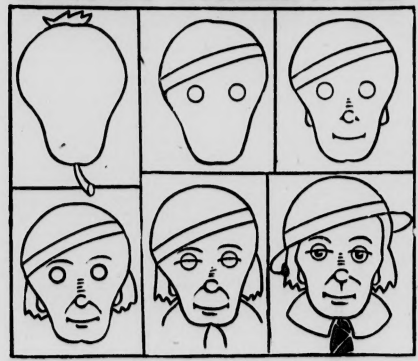

"Now, dear, you will be able to 'make up' quite as well as I, won't you?" she asked.

"Not quite so rapidly, anyhow," laughed Marjory, for by this time Aunt Hetty was making the finishing touches.

A few minutes later, when the lass was fully dressed in her quaint costume, no one would have believed her other than a geisha girl from Japan. Indeed, her "make-up" was the most convincing of all those at the party, although there were Puritan girls, Colonial dames, mademoiselles from the French court, dashing cavaliers, cowboys, Indians, Pierrots and Pierrettes, and many number of other fanciful costumes.

"When it was all over, Marjory admitted to Aunt Hetty, 'You were right, Auntie. A masquerade is the best way to make believe. You know you want to make believe in such fashion that people can't tell you who you are. I believe and there was hardly one who knew me in my Japanese dress.'"

Troubles of an Ambitious Bear

ONLY for naught had been all the plans of this little bear, whose ambitions were to be something greater than a common drawing on a slate. By the aid of magic, it had been changed into birds and fish and animals, but always had it come to grief.

"If I can only become a human being," thought the bear, "my troubles will be over."

And immediately the bear DID become a Farmer Man, but, alas! a man who had no other ambition than to draw pictures of bears on a slate.

But the Farmer Man is not such a bad sort of person, after all. He is going to continue the drawing lessons which Polly Evans has been giving, with the help of the Ambitious Bear. And before long several numbers of these lessons will appear—ones that little girls and boys will have no trouble in copying in their drawing books.

A GOOD HIDING PLACE

"SHUT your eyes and blind your ears," said lady names, "were going to play hide-and-seek. Wherever I can't find my handkerchief."

So she tiptoed across the room, and laid the ribbon on the window sill behind the flower box.

Edna and Harold had a long hunt for it, and when they gave it up, they lay down on the window sill and hid themselves behind the flower box.

The ribbon was not on the window sill nor under the window, and where they looked, it was nowhere to be seen. Where had it gone?

Now it happened that morning that Mrs. Oriole was hunting for a string, and when she spied the lady's ribbon in the open window, she thought, "Ah, that is just what I want."

Chief Qualification.
"Children," began the Sunday school teacher, "what must all be before we go to heaven?"

She was hardly prepared for the answer of a little girl of 5, who replied, solemnly:

"Dead."

Removing Ink Stains

IN two quarts of water, previously boiled and cooled, dissolve four ounces of citric acid.

Add six to eight ounces of a strong, strained solution of borax after which the whole may be put in a bottle.

Then to two quarts of water previously boiled and cooled add three-quarters of a pound of citric acid.

Stir and let stand from four to six days, after which strain and add from six to eight ounces of borax in a strong solution, and place in a separate bottle.

To remove ink from paper, cloth or other absorbent substances, the composition in bottle No. 1 is applied so as to saturate thoroughly the ink-covered spot; a blotter placed underneath will absorb all water, moisture. Rinse out then apply bottle No. 2.

By the combined use of the two fluids thus described, writing, ink or other fluid will be immediately dissolved and removed. If ink spot is on paper, the paper can then be written on.

What's the Use?

WHAT'S the use of contradicting what people say, even if you are sure you are right?

What's the use of being inquisitive about the affairs of even your most intimate friend?

What's the use of understanding anything simply because you don't happen to possess it?

What's the use of believing that every one in the world is happier than you are?

The Care of Tiling

THE home of tiling is Italy. There it is used for hallways, dining rooms and bedrooms, and always it is in perfect condition, shining, smooth, and unspotted, as it should be. Inquiry brought forth the information that sand and water are never used, but instead oil and turpentine are mixed and applied frequently with a stiff brush. This dry, the floors are polished with wax.

The Italian tiler is mostly the mosaic work on a coarser scale, of colored tiles, and the secret of taking care of it is well worth knowing.

A Twig Barometer

ANY girl or boy can make, absolutely without expense, a real barometer which will forecast the weather accurately.

Take a little tree branch, with a twig extending from it, and nail this to a board. Be sure to have the twig entirely free. Then hang your barometer in the open air, keeping it protected from sun and rain.

Wood is so sensitive to the weather, that you will find that the kind of weather which causes an ordinary barometer to fall will also depress the point of the twig, and the opposite kind of weather will cause the twig to move upward. After testing the movements for awhile, you will be able to mark well on the board.

Of course, the twig must be readjusted from time to time, and a new one substituted occasionally.

A Elf in Trick

MOST likely the mischievous elf glanced around at Santa as he was about to work.

No better a chance could there ever be found.

The elf was not one to be shirking. With deftness he changed every label in sight.

But that with a name was so marked.

"What shall he be, gleefully, 'I'll have tonight."

"I'll have really and truly skyknight."

The Mouse's Treasure

BY THE window of an old house on the Rue de la Huchette Madame Lorry, repairing a fragment of delicate Venetian lace. Nearby, her little grandson, Gabriel, a lad about 11 years old, coaxed from his violin strains of music as fine and fragile as the filmy, gauzy-like threads in Andante's hands.

"Tomorrow is the day for your class in the conservatory," he said, asked Madame.

"Yes, grandma," replied Gabriel. "Then I shall leave you to your practice," said Madame, "while I carry back my completed work."

No sooner had his grandmother departed than Gabriel called softly:

"Grissette! Grissette!"

Immediately a little grey mouse, peered itself from a hole in the corner of the room. And as the lad commenced to play a soothing air, the sharp nose protruded still further, until those came into view a mouse with silky mouthpiece, a fine, soft web of grey, and eyes like black pearls, which followed intently the course of the bow.

The boy cast a sidelong glance at the mouse and then continued the music, which he delighted in his tiny audience. Presently there was heard the sound of footsteps. Grissette vanished as the door opened and Madame entered.

Observing the situation from open his grandmother's brow, Gabriel asked:

"What is the matter, you, grandmother?"

"My dear child, I do not wish to trouble you with trouble," gently answered Madame.

"I pray you, do not hide any secrets from me," said Gabriel, beamingly.

"I may tell you, replied the grandmother, "that they have complained about my work for the last week. You know how delicate my lace is, and I can no longer do such fine work as I used to do."

The lad ran to her and threw his arms about her neck.

"You need not say, any more, grandmother, I can do it for you."

"No, my boy, I promised your mother I would not let her know your course at the conservatory. You are to show much talent, not to let me have your career ruined," responded Madame.

At this moment she caught sight of the mouse who had come from its hole.

"A mouse! a mouse!" she cried, seizing a brush and quickly pursuing the daring little animal.

"It is gentle, it will not harm you, grandma," protested Gabriel. But Madame did not heed his words.

She ran to the hole into which the mouse had disappeared and pulled away a loose board in the wall.

What she saw below seemed to interest her, for without heed she reached down and drew forth two large bags covered with dust.

Untying the cords which bound them, she emptied upon the table a mass of coarse gold beads bearing the name of Saint-Denis.

"It is a fortune!" she gasped.

"And I have given it to us," cried Gabriel, who had given it to us to use as I wish."

After all, Gabriel did not have to go to the conservatory. He was compelled to sew for a living.

And he was not to be a student, which had to leave Paris hurriedly. He was to be a student in a school where he could place themselves in comfortable circumstances. Gabriel then told his studies at the conservatory, which Madame enjoyed the quiet she so well desired.

Grissette, the fairy, did not need to be thanked, but that may be sure that neither Gabriel nor Madame Lorry ever got their mouse benefactor.

Sunday School Lesson

CONDUCTED BY REV. T. D. JONES
February 25th, 1909.

Correspondence is invited upon any lesson or points of difficulty. Address to Sunday School, Pioneer Office, Didsbury.

Golden Text, Acts 8: 6 "The multitude gave heed with one accord unto the things that were spoken by Philip when they heard and saw the signs which he did."

Lesson, Acts 8: 4-25. "The Gospel in Samaria."

Verses 4 to 13 describe the work of Philip in Samaria. The general effect of persecution is to satisfy and holy the cause (persecuted). Evil is often used by God to further His wise designs. This persecution was meant to destroy the work of the Apostles but the real result was to scatter them and make them cover a wider area with their preaching. The fleshly things of the world are used to confound the strong. God can realize His eternal purposes better without than with the evil, but since men will commit sin, even the sin must be made to have beneficent results. Persecution drove the Pilgrim fathers from Britain, the good result was the founding of the great American nation. Philip was one of the seven deacons appointed by the early church, and he, like Stephen, went about preaching "The Christ". Philip was a man of splendid character, filled with the Spirit of God willing to render any possible service for the uplift of man. Verse 9 introduces to us a strange man named Simon, who bewitched people by means of sorcery. This was probably no more than a superior knowledge of chemistry by which he first attracted the attention and then traded upon the credulity of those who came to consult him. He was much surprised at the works of Philip, and through them he came to believe that Philip had to teach. The conversion was not genuine for presently we see him rebuffed for a serious fault.

What was the character of Philip? Was the persecution directed against the church a blessing or a curse? What is Conversion and what proofs can we have that a person is converted? Does joy always accompany conversion? Is it possible for any to be converted and yet not receive the gift of the Holy Spirit?

Verses 14-25 Peter and John are sent down to Samaria. It is clear from verse 15 that the Apostles did not think that the Holy Spirit could come upon men and women except through them. They admitted that the gift was not theirs to bestow or to withhold. In verse 18 we discover the character of Simon. He sought after religion because he thought there was money in it, but Peter said, "Thy money perish with thee." Then Simon again shows how little he understood the value of repentance, for he asks the prayers of the people that no evil might befall him. It is the duty and the privilege of every follower of Jesus to be conscious of the indwelling Spirit of God. We may know assuredly that we have passed from death unto life. What was Simon's idea of religion? What is the gift of the Holy Spirit? Does it fall upon believers or does it come from within? Have you had this experience? If so, tell how you received the Spirit? There are some things money cannot buy, name one.

Ghost Pine

On Wednesday February, 10th, the greatest event of the season was a box social which was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Ferry, at the store. The social was got up by the kind efforts of the ladies among the congregation of the Church of England for the purpose of raising money towards building a church in the district. Notwithstanding that the night was unusually unpleasant and stormy there were altogether about 75 people present. Mr. James Campbell very kindly consented to sell the boxes and act as our chairman, and he was to be congratulated upon the able manner in which he carried out his duties. Altogether the large sum of $100 was raised. A good programme was provided and among others who sang were Miss Campbell, Mr. Robert Cook, Mr. Gilbert Scott, Mr. E. M. Ferry, Rev. Attwood, Mr. James Campbell, (junior) Mr. W. Ferry, and G. A. W. Johnson. Among other items worthy of mention was a quartette in which Messrs. Cook, Campbell, Scott, and Downs took part and duets by Mr. and Mrs. G. A. W. Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. W. Ferry. A special feature of the evening was a pantomime in which the following ladies and gentlemen took part: Mrs. G. A. Johnson, Mrs. W. Ferry and Messrs E. M. Ferry, G. A. W. Johnson and J. Johnson. The ladies are especially congratulated on the magnificent boxes made by them. Supper being served at midnight, the programme was continued until the early hours of the morning. This social will long be remembered as the brightest and most pleasant ever held in the history of Ghost Pine Creek.

On Thursday, February 18th the annual vestry meeting of the congregation of the Church of England was held at the store. The meeting was presided over by Rev. Attwood, and the first item for discussion was the forming of the Parish and the naming of same. After defining the boundaries, the name given was that of "Christ Church," Ghost Pine Creek. The following gentlemen were then elected as church warden for the current year. Vicars warden, Mr. George A. W. Johnson; Peoples' warden, Mr. E. M. Ferry; A permanent committee was then formed for the purpose of arranging the building of the new church in the future. Mr. Thomas Rath was elected as Sec. Treas. and the following gentlemen were elected as members of the building committee: Mr. William Johnson, Mr. G. A. W. Johnson, Mr. Geo. Saunders, Mr. E. M. Ferry, Mr. James Gandy, Mr. W. G. Ferry and Mr. John Sonerville. After completing the rest of the business, a resolution was passed that each member present would make special efforts to urge on the present good work of the Church of England and to further the interests of the church in the district whenever possible.

Make this up at your home

Here is a simple home-made mixture given by an eminent authority on Kidney diseases, who makes the statement that it will relieve almost any case of Kidney trouble if taken before the stage of Bright's disease. He states that such symptoms as lame back, pain in the side, frequent desire to urinate, especially at night; painful and discolored urination, are readily overcome. Here is the recipe. Try it.

Flu! Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime. These ingredients are all harmless and easily mixed at home by shaking well in a bottle. This mixture has a peculiar healing and soothing effect upon the entire Kidney and Urinary structure, and often overcomes the worst forms of Rheumatism in just a little while. This mixture is said to remove all blood disorders and cure Rheumatism by forcing the Kidneys to filter and strain from the blood and system all uric acid and foul decomposed waste matter, which cause these afflictions. Try it if you aren't well. Save the prescription.

Eat Sausages or New Bread

You can eat anything your stomach craves without fear of a case of indigestion or Dyspepsia, or that your food will ferment or sour on your stomach if you will occasionally take a little Dapsapin after eating.

Your meals will taste good, and anything that you eat will be digested;
nothing can ferment or turn into acid or poison or stomach gas, which causes belching, flatulency, a feeling of fullness, after eating. Nausea, Indigestion (like a lump of lead in stomach), Billiousness, Heartburn, Water brash, Pain in stomach and intestines or other symptoms.

Headaches from the stomach are absolutely unknown where this effective remedy is used. Dapsapin really does all the work of a healthy stomach. It digests your meals when your stomach can't. Each trankle will digest all the food you can eat and leave nothing to ferment or sour.

Get a large 50-cent case of Pape's Dapsapin from your druggist and start taking today and by tomorrow you will actually brag about your healthy, strong stomach, for you then can eat anything and everything you want without the slightest discomfort or misery, and every particle of impurity and gas that is in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away without the use of laxatives or any other assistance.
